

Kaylea Champion (she/her)

Postdoctoral Scholar, University of Washington

kaylea@uw.edu | <https://kayleachampion.com>

2016 - MA, Critical and Creative Thinking

2024 - PhD, Communication

Recent Publications:

Life histories of taboo knowledge artifacts.
CSCW 2024.

Challenges in restructuring community-based moderation. CSCW 2024.

Countering underproduction of peer produced
Goods. (2024) New Media & Society. [\[LINK\]](#)

Sources of underproduction in open source software. 2024 *IEEE International Conference on Software Analysis,
Evolution and Reengineering*. [\[LINK\]](#)

Engineering formality and software risk in Debian
Python packages. 2024 IEEE International Conference on Software Analysis, Evolution and Reengineering. [\[LINK\]](#)

I study communities building information public goods.

- What is maintained and what is neglected?
- Which sociotechnical practices lead to desirable outcomes?
(secure & reliable infrastructure, respect for personal privacy, robust & shared governance, a well-informed public)
- Who participates and who is excluded?
- How we can intervene before failures?

My work in progress

- Continuing to write, do research, teach, mentor
- Pursuing my next questions:
 - How can we engage in graceful sunseting – walking away, shutting down, facing our own end?
 - What are the impacts of big shifts in public attention on our infrastructure and our knowledge environment?
 - How can we hold space for casual, no-commitment, purposive work?
- Seeking opportunities without losing my sense of purpose